

“Autumn Artistry”: Trees in Fall Colors Photography Contest

The TREES’ annual community photography contest is underway with the beginning of fall. The Tribune-Star and the Vigo County Public Library are also sponsors of the contest.

The theme for this year is “Autumn Artistry”: Trees in Fall Color.

Everyone who likes to shoot photographs is encouraged to enter. The entries from the last three contests have been amazing. There are many great photographers in our community. You are encouraged to join in.

There will be three divisions: the Youth Division for young people eighteen and under, the Adult Amateur Division, and the Professional Division.

Fliers that give all the rules for the contest and include an entry form are now available at all branches of the Vigo County Public Library, the reception desk of The Tribune-Star, the Purdue Extension office, and Mic’s Pics photography shop.

People can have a flier mailed to them by calling the Purdue Extension at 462-3371 and requesting a flier. Complete information is also available on the TREES website:

The contest deadline is after the leaves have fallen – Monday, November 24th.

The judging will take place in late November.

The winning photographs and a selection of other outstanding photos will be on display the month of January at the Main Library at 7th and Poplar Streets.
